

Environmental Policy

Ryan Civil Contracting (RCC) recognises the importance of environmental sustainability. We will conduct our business in a professional, ethical, safe and responsible manner. We will protect and respect the environment, our employees, clients and the communities in which we operate.

RCC is committed to:

Working in accordance with AS/NZS ISO 14001:2004,

Continually improving our environmental performance to reflect best practice,

Preventing pollution by incorporating effective environmental procedures utilising safe and reliable services and products in all processes,

Efficient use of natural resources, by reducing waste and, where possible, recycling materials in all business activities,

Ensuring compliance with all relevant environmental legislation, standards and codes, and also to continually set higher standards for ourselves in order to exceed industry standards,

Assessing environmental risks and impacts, and where applicable avoiding, minimising, rectifying, reducing or offsetting the harmful effects that our activities may have on the environment,

Ascertaining the causes of incidents and responding quickly by implementing actions to eliminate recurrence,

Consulting and cooperating with all stakeholders in analysing emerging environmental issues, as well as encouraging the use, development and advancement of innovative technologies and scientific knowledge,

Periodically setting and reviewing environmental objectives and measurable targets to ensure relevance to our business,

Regularly report on our environmental performance and implement corrective actions where performance does not meet expectations in order to ensure validity and effectiveness,

Encouraging ethical environmental practices and behaviours including respect for traditional rights, customs and cultural heritage,

Communicating this policy to all employees to promote environmental accountability and management.

All employees are expected to promote, implement and communicate this policy to clients and stakeholders. RCC will strive to promote environmental awareness and achieve our goals of being the preferred supplier of service whilst constructively contributing to environmental sustainability. This policy shall be reviewed annually.
